Triflimide (HNTf<sub>2</sub>) is a commercially available and highly versatile super Brønsted acid. Owing to its strong acidity as well as good compatibility with organic solvents, it has been widely employed as an exceptional catalyst, promoter, or additive in a wide range of organic reactions. On many occasions, triflimide has been demonstrated to outperform triflic acid (TfOH).

Alkali metals reduce benzophenone to the deeply blue colored radical anion, diphenylketyl:  $M + Ph_2CO \rightarrow M^+ + Ph_2CO^{\cdot-}$ . Generally sodium is used as the alkali metal. Although inferior in terms of safety and effectiveness relative to molecular sieves, this ketyl is used in the purification of organic solvents, particularly ethers, because it reacts with water and oxygen to give non ...

Reaction mechanism. The reaction mechanism of the Mitsunobu reaction is fairly complex. The identity of intermediates and the roles they play has been the subject of debate. Initially, the triphenyl phosphine (2) makes a nucleophilic attack upon diethyl azodicarboxylate (1) producing a betaine intermediate 3, which deprotonates the carboxylic acid (4) to form the ion pair 5.

Urbanization, resource exploitation, and lifestyle changes have diminished possibilities for human contact with nature in many societies. Concern about the loss has helped motivate research on the health benefits of contact with nature. Reviewing that research here, we focus on nature as represented by aspects of the physical environment relevant to planning, design, and policy measures that ...
